Good morning Athena,

Congratulations – it appears the funding for your Breaking Code Silence grant has been awarded by the Hilton Family Foundation!

We sent you an inquiry about this in June with a follow-up in September but have not heard back from you. Please let us know the status of your IRB application and please respond to Terri's question below regarding your conflict of interest disclosure for this project.

Thanks,

Lee

Hi Athena,

I'm following up on this question regarding your project specific conflict of interest disclosure for this proposal, "Breaking Code Silence". I'm sure that between summer break and now the start of the semester it may have fallen off your radar, and mine as well! Can you please provide the information requested below so we can determine next steps if any are needed?

If you have heard from the sponsor regarding whether it will/will not be funded please let us know that, also. If it is not going to be funded then no follow up is necessary at this time.

Thanks!

Terri

Hi Athena,

Congratulations on submitting a proposal for the study "Breaking Code Silence"! You indicated that your proposed project involves human subjects, so the Research Integrity Office received an alert through RAMSeS indicating a potential compliance issue. This is just a reminder that if this project is funded, you will need to obtain approval from the UNCW Institutional Review Board (IRB) through the online IRBIS system prior to recruiting any subjects for this study. To learn more about the UNCW IRB process, submission deadlines, and meeting dates, please visit our Human Subjects webpage.

Thank you for submitting your project specific conflict of interest disclosure for this project. You indicated that you volunteer for a committee that's part of the board of directors of "Breaking Code Silence". Did you mean the board of directors for the sponsor, Hilton Family Foundation? Please provide more information about your volunteer work with this committee and whether you will be involved in any discussions or decisions about this project.

Thank you,

Terri
